"Mark Tull - King of Search.

Mark is an absolute legend of Search, if you are looking to do business online you should be talking to Mark, what he doesn't know about search engine marketing isn't worth knowing.

Mark understands the online buyer and can offer valuable advise on conversion (lead generation and sales) which is what online business is all about. Ask him about converting your website from a library to a shop and you will know what I mean.

He is a professional and a great character and I would reccomend him to anyone looking for an advantage over their competitors in the ever changing online world."

"Tully is a seasoned professional in search marketing. His passion for the topic is rivalled only by his dedication to customer service. Mark delegates and trusts those around him, just don't get him started on landing page optimisation or analytics late in the day!" June 25, 2012

Ross Kenny- Account Manager, Search Engine Advertising, TPP Internet

"I have worked with Mark over the last year with an array of clients. He always delivers online strategies that are custom to their needs and budgets. I found Mark to be at all times professional, client focused and enthusiastic. There are definitely no smoke and mirrors; only results!

I can always trust in the advice being delivered from brief to final output as he works through the process every step of the way with us and our clients to ensure complete satisfaction. Mark has become an integral part of our organisation and is a vital contact on all things relating to SEO and SEM for our clients.

Mark takes the time to explain the process and educate all of us on the quandary that is the SEO world. He is always willing to take the time to answer any questions I may have (and there are a few).

I would recommend Mark and his team at Website Essentials for all your online needs."
